I liked that your conclusions were firm and that they did not deviate from exactly what you were able to conclude from the individual studies. It left no room for uncertainty.

The presenter had a well thought out conclusion based on the results of the three studies. I like the specific recommendation of where ceftriaxone can be used in a patients with lyme disease.

Clinical importance was not really established in this part of the country, but if we lived in the northeast it would be more clinically important great interaction with audience. Loved the hands-on approach with the stuffed animals

When you were answering questions, I could tell that you knew a lot more than what you presented on. I could tell that you put a lot of work into this seminar.

Solid knowledge base, expanded on info beyond the slides and studies great knowledge of the topic. loved the personal connection of the seminar

Presenter was able to distinguish clinical significance and how power played a big role in the conclusions of the studies.

great job dissecting the guidelines and coming to conclusions that didn't necessarily fit the guidelines

Provide one comment on what you liked about this seminar

Really great job with presenting your clinical data and discussing the importance of power, or lack of it, and the implications of insufficient power.

Best part was how comfortable of a presenter you were. It was very natural for you. Great job

Your presentation style and pace were fantastic

Great job engaging the audience during the introduction.

presentation style was entertaining

Provide one comment on what could be improved about this seminar

Maybe cite your background section on your slides. Also maybe put the patient demographics of each study in the appendix, not in the data tables.

I kind of lost the pertinence half way through expand on the pharmacist role but it was still very good it was good

I thought that you could have spent a little more time on the background

nothing was bad

I cant think of anything. Good job.

Good analysis and presentation of studies

For the three studies it might have been more efficient to run through a flowchart of each, then compare them side by side for each aspect of the study in table form.

The results were a bit cluttered it may have helped to put it in tables

nothing

nothing

Nothing to say here. A great job overall

no additional comments

Not much that I would improve. You went a bit long but that could have been due to discussion.

slowing down to answer questions

Keep a steady pace- you came out of the gate going a little too fast.

I would just lock down your power discussion more quickly. I would also keep your "conclusion" to the end even if the audience notes that the study is underpowered it may bias them towards the conclusion instead of listening to the presentation and thinking about the data.

Na, great job

a real tick not a stuff tick??

no comment

Clarifying questions during Q&A sections

Incorporate some charts or pictures of the results from each study.

the topic was pretty irrelevant in this part of the country
